Interview Attire Guide

WHAT TO WEAR
Neat, put-together, and professional shows you're ready for the role.

A BUSINESS PROFESSIONAL

Suits, blazers, dress shirts, ties, and polished dress shoes.

Great for:
- Corporate & finance roles
- Legal & banking positions
- Executive interviews
- Traditional office settings

B BUSINESS CASUAL

Collared shirts, blouses, chinos, and closed-toe shoes.

Safe choice for:
- Many office environments
- Creative industries
- Startups & tech companies

C WORK-APPROPRIATE DRESSES

Choose dresses that:
- Fit well and fall at or past the knees
- Have short or long sleeves
- Are not too tight or revealing
- Pair with closed-toe flats or modest heels.

WHAT NOT TO WEAR
These can be distracting or too casual.

No Casual Footwear
Crocs, flip-flops, and athletic shoes are too casual and unprofessional.

No Open-Toe Shoes
Not ideal for most professional settings. Stick with closed-toe options.

No Cargo Pants
Too casual and can look bulky. Opt for dress pants or chinos instead.

No Ripped Jeans
Too casual and can look unprofessional. Save for the weekend.

Avoid Overly Casual Clothing
Tank tops and revealing attire can be distracting and should be avoided.

Avoid Athletic Wear & Hats
Jerseys, gym clothes, and hats are too casual for an interview.

PRO TIP

When in doubt, dress one level up from the company's everyday dress code. Research the company culture beforehand if possible!
